

2000

We needed a break, so we drove from our home in Valparaiso Indiana to see Wall Drug, The Badlands, Deadwood and Devil's Tower. It was a good but very short trip. We didn't keep notes, and our cameras were full of film instead of pixel catchers. I have more pictures but scanning gives poor quality because I have a cheap scanner

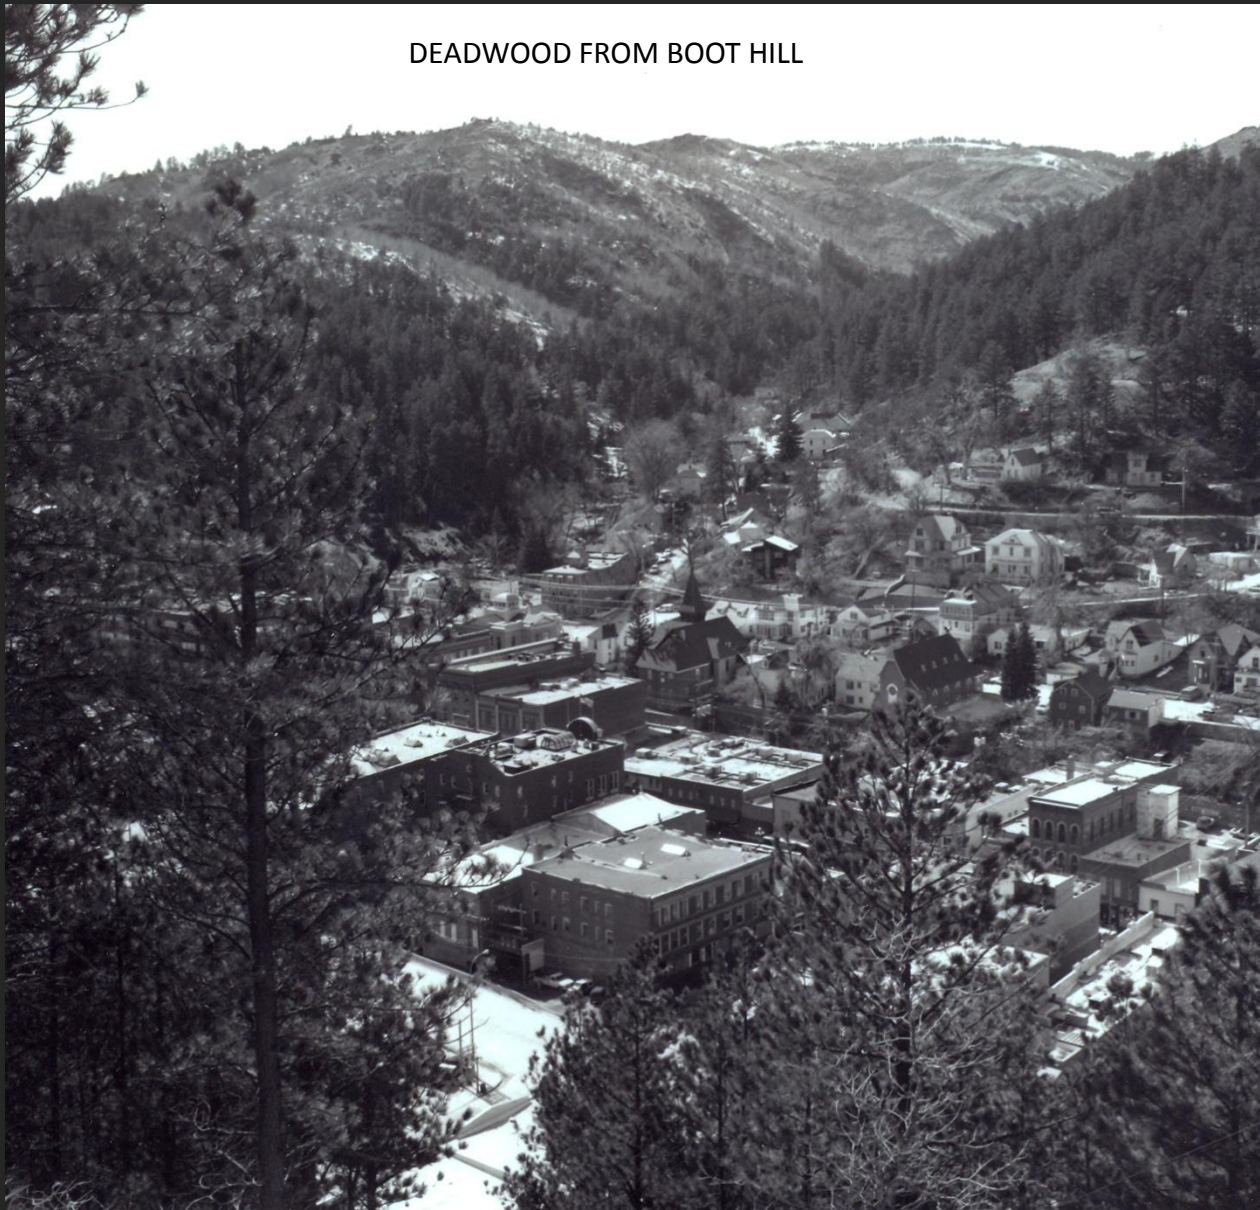

The Badlands, were ok, but not really a lot to see. We found a back road up a hill to Sheep-Mesa (?) and drove down some dirt roads but didn't see much. The highlight was an old building with skulls on it, but I can't find that pic right now. Probably in a shoe box.

DEADWOOD FROM BOOT HILL

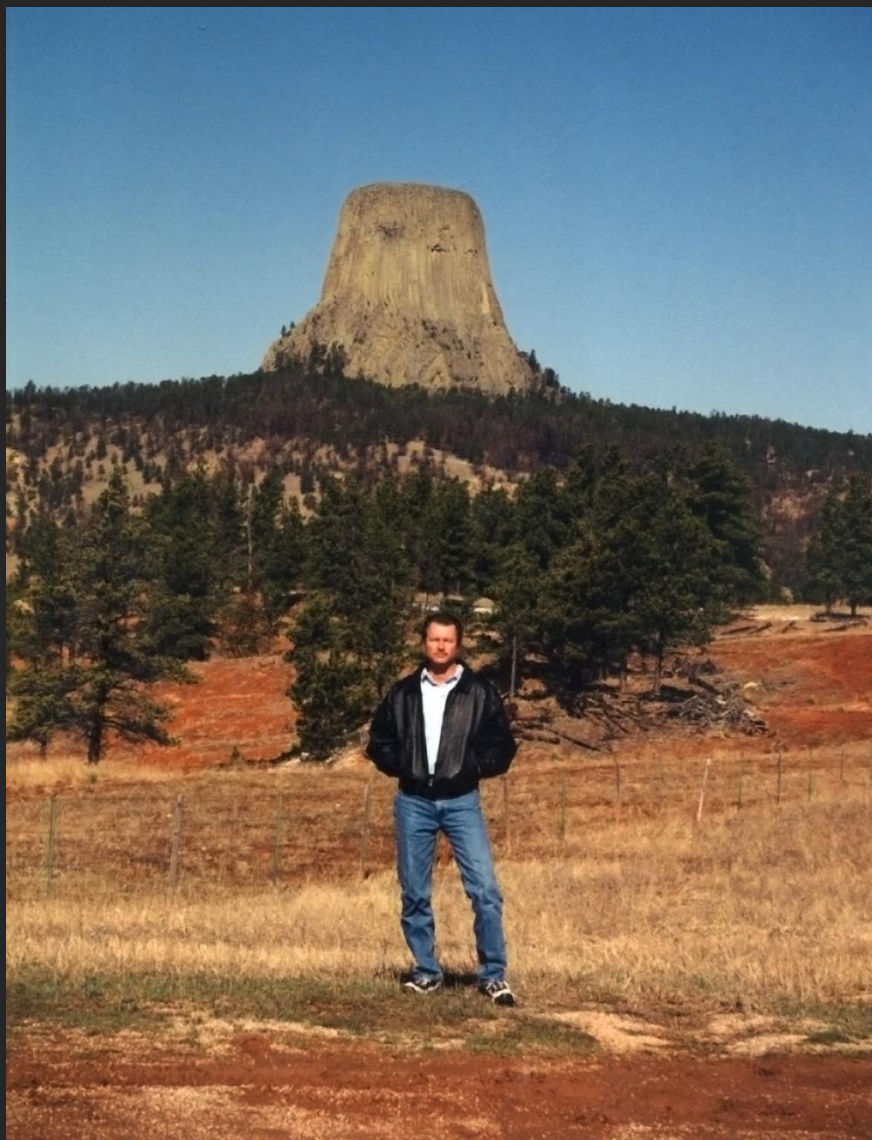

On Boot Hill – Rita using the Yashica MAT camera

Champion Iron Gate made in Kenton Ohio – on Boot Hill Deadwood SD

It was a Hell of a long trip – and no ice water
